

Website Compliance Review

Legal & General America

References to Legal & General America and its products and services—on websites, social media sites, in print and electronic communications and in other media formats—are subject to compliance review.

When directed to brokers: Advertising is allowed at all general agency contract levels. Must have prior approval by the agency one level higher in the contract hierarchy and prior approval by the Legal & General America compliance department.

When directed to consumers: Advertising is allowed at any contract level with prior approval by the agency one level higher in the contract hierarchy and prior approval by the Legal & General America compliance department.

Start the Process by Completing the Website Review Request Form

- For websites, submit form LAA1034. For all other advertising and social media, submit form LAA738. See separate guidelines LAA1867.
- Fillable request forms are located in the 'Marketing & Resources' then 'Compliance Review' section of the Partner Dashboard.
- Once approved, a compliance number will be provided.

Make Sure Your Ad or Website Identifies You and Us

- Identify the insurer and home office location: Legal & General America life insurance products are underwritten and issued by Banner Life Insurance Company, Urbana, MD and William Penn Life Insurance Company of New York, Valley Stream, NY. Banner products are distributed in 49 states and in DC. William Penn products are available exclusively in New York; Banner does not solicit business there.
- Identify yourself and include your business address—street, city and state—and phone number must be included. This must be a name as it appears on the Banner or William Penn contract. Marketing names (DBAs) are permitted if the contracted person/entity is disclosed.
- Advertisements not directed to consumers must clearly state "For broker use only. Not for public distribution".

Clearly Describe Products

- The words "life insurance" should always be included in your description. Include the type of life insurance (term, universal life, etc.) being advertised if you are referring to it by its marketing name.
- Include policy form numbers and all appropriate disclosure. See preapproved text attached.
- If withdrawals are mentioned, use the words "partial surrenders" and explain that they are subject to surrender charges during the number of years specified in the policy.
- If policy loans are mentioned, explain that interest will be charged on policy loans and that loans may reduce the death benefit of a life insurance policy.

For us, advertising is defined as:

Verbal, printed or written material designed to create interest in life insurance or in an insurance company, or to induce the public to purchase, increase, modify, reinstate, borrow on, surrender, replace or retain a policy.

Regardless of media format, if it fits the definition, it is an ad.

Provide Accurate Quotes and Values

- Include underwriting assumptions (class, sex, age, tobacco/non-tobacco, bands) and specify that rates are per $1,000 of coverage when including rate tables. (Note: Rates can NOT be advertised in Florida.)
- Include effective date of rates/premiums.
- Describe payments as premiums, not deposits.
- If quoting premiums, specify whether policy fees are included and the amount of the policy fee. If not guaranteed, state that premiums are subject to change and under what conditions. If you show premiums or values for any non-guaranteed elements, show the corresponding guaranteed premiums or values with equal prominence.
- Make certain that all comparisons are fair, accurate and complete in all respects.
- Include the source of any statistics or performance information.

Legal & General America Prohibits

- Advertising by fax, text, robocall, prerecorded voice message, or auto dialer, or by using any vendor, software, or other technology that offers these services in contravention of the Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA).
- Advertising or publishing commission rates or schedules.
- Implying that life insurance is an investment, savings plan or retirement plan.
- Using testimonials or endorsements by third parties unless they are genuine and pertinent to the product or service being advertised.
- Distributing materials in states where the product you're advertising is not approved or where you are not appointed with Banner or William Penn.

We are counting on you for appropriate due diligence prior to your request for website or social media site review. It is your responsibility to make sure all information maintained on your site is current: Banner and/or William Penn business forms, underwriting criteria and requirements, product descriptions and specifications, illustrations, interest rates, ratings by independent industry organizations and state approvals are examples of information subject to change.

We Make Disclosure Easy

See the pre-approved text on the attached pages for product descriptions and disclosure. Edits to your website that are suggested during the Legal & General America compliance review process must be incorporated before approval.

Websites must be reviewed at least annually and whenever material references to Banner/William Penn are modified.

Websites developed by brokers associated with your agency must be first approved by your BGA and then submitted to Legal & General America for review. Appropriate due diligence is expected.

The Legal & General America companies will assume no liability for inaccuracies. According to ongoing business practices, all general agencies are notified of any product or procedural changes made by Banner or William Penn; agencies are responsible for forwarding that information to their brokers. Websites must be updated to reflect changes within 30 business days of notification.

On Every Website

The name must be identical to that which appears on the Banner or William Penn broker/agency agreement. Marketing names (DBAs) are permitted, however the contracted person/people/entity must also be disclosed.

Your business address—street, city and state—and phone number must be included.

Compliance with state regulations governing interaction with brokers/customers in all states is expected. Your website should disclose the states where you are (or are not) contracted and licensed to write business with Banner and/or William Penn.

You must be able to provide assurance that necessary precaution has been taken to protect the privacy of sensitive personal information entered by or about consumers on your site or accessible at your site. The Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (GLB) requires any person involved in the handling of nonpublic personal information, including BGAs and brokers, to adhere to privacy standards.

If your website lists or provides product descriptions for specific Banner and/or William Penn products, appropriate disclosure must be made on each product page (or the pages must include highly visible links to separate pages which provide this disclosure). The text on the following pages can be used for this purpose. While this exact language does not have to be used, (all of it may not be required because that is determined by the detail in your product description), your site must include accurate alternatives for the specific issues our suggested text addresses.

If Your Website Audience Is Only Brokers

"For broker use only. Not for public distribution." should be clearly noted, preferably on the bottom of each page.

If it is possible to download illustration software from your site, it is your responsibility to provide appropriate security to prevent consumer access and to assure that this is a service provided only to contracted Banner and/or William Penn brokers. It is also your responsibility to make sure the most current illustration software is used.

Commissions may not be advertised; commission rates and schedules cannot be posted.

If Your Website Is For Consumers

Product and/or purchase materials developed for and distributed to potential clients, as a result of responses to your website, must include all appropriate disclosure information and must be submitted in conjunction with your request for compliance review.

If Your Website Includes Rates, Provides Quotes or Offers Online Application

Appropriate disclosure must be made on each product and/or quote page (or the pages must include highly visible links to separate pages which provide this disclosure). The text on the following pages can be used for this purpose. While this exact language does not have to be used, your site must include accurate alternatives for ALL of the specific issues our suggested text addresses.

Website Compliance Review

Legal & General America

The most current Banner and/or William Penn rates and underwriting classes/requirements/criteria must be used. It is your responsibility to use Banner/William Penn approved resources for this data and to verify its accuracy on your site.

When using generic descriptions of underwriting classes, you must indicate that the number of classes and class criteria varies by company.

Requests to populate Banner and/or William Penn applications or new business forms with consumer data are individually considered. Questions asked on-line must be identical to those which appear on the Banner and/or William Penn forms. Form samples with populated data must be submitted independently for review. If your request for review did not include these samples, authorization to use them will not be granted.

Do not use the words “apply” or “application” unless your site uses the exact application (or asks questions identical to the entire application) which have been filed by Banner and/or William Penn and approved for use in specific states.

If You Use a Third-Party Vendor for Website Services

Compliance approval is not automatic for third-party services for forms, quotes or product information included on your website. It is your responsibility to make sure updates are implemented in a timely manner and to check the accuracy of what is posted and to notify the source as appropriate.

Forms and rate files are automatically distributed to approved third-party vendors.

If Your Website Includes Links To Other Banner / William Penn Materials

Unless they have been created by us, broker or customer communications referenced on your site, or sales and presentation materials not shown in their entirety on your site, but which may result in the sale of a Banner and/or William Penn product, must be submitted independently for review.

Materials posted to partner.lgamerica.com for agency use in JPEG or PDF format do not require a separate review as long as they are not altered other than the addition of agency contact identification (which must include your office street address, city, state and phone number).

If Your Website Includes Links To Any Legal & General America Website

It is your responsibility to make sure your website is linked only to www.lgamerica.com or the home page of the Partner Dashboard (partner.lgamerica.com), or with prior approval, to the forms page (so appropriate security measures can be taken to eliminate access to other agency data). Access to information on partner.lgamerica.com other than the home page is limited to individuals contracted with Banner or William Penn and can only be accessed through the log-on procedures.
